International Events of the World Union for German Shepherd Dog Clubs

Under the patronage of the World Union for German Shepherd Dog Clubs (WUSV) two international events are hosted by WUSV member clubs on an annual basis with the aim to further support, improve and develop the German Shepherd Dog breed.

The program distinguishes between the WUSV Universal Championship to be scheduled for the month of June of the current calendar year, and the WUSV World Championship to be scheduled at the first weekend of the month of October as the earliest possible date of the current calendar year in order to give all participating member clubs a chance to hold their respective qualification trials in a timely fashion.

Both events are to be held based on the IGP rules and the recent version of the regulations respectively specifications, and organizational requirements – the WUSV Universal Championship also includes a section for anatomy and health in addition to the three trial sections tracking, obedience and defense work.

Templates of the regulations, specifications and organizational requirements are available on the WUSV homepage at <https://www.wusv.org/en/events>

Once the regulations are completed for the event to be held the Secretariat General is to be provided with a copy in order to obtain the approval of the WUSV Board of Directors. Once this is finalized the document needs to be published on the homepage to be launched for the event by the hosting organization.

As an additional offer, the hosting country can also organize a championship for agility and/or obedience as well as a Von-Stephanitz Memorial Show at its own discretion. However, both programs are optional.

The club assigned for the event respectively its legal representatives submit themselves to the requirements, specifications and instructions as stipulated by the WUSV board of directors, the WUSV secretariat general, the WUSV coordinator for trial & training, the head judge, the tracking commissioner, and all other regulations applicable by that time.

All decisions to be taken in terms of the realization, the date and venue of the event are to be coordinated with the above-mentioned party respectively the WUSV Secretariat General shall be informed about all proposed changes at any time. A list with the names of a permanent contact person and the members of the organization committee shall be provided in a timely fashion.

Teams from all WUSV member clubs and their team captains are entitled to register for the events. The number of participating dogs and substitute dogs as well as the participation requirements for the dogs are detailed in the regulations and the specifications.

Premises and facilities are to be made available by the hosting organization for the drawing of the lots, for the judges, and for team meetings as well as for the captains meeting to be held by the end of the event.

The hosting organization must cover all liability claims. The WUSV – however – is to be indemnified and held harmless from possible claims in connection with the event. Prior to the event, the hosting organization must provide evidence of the respective insurance coverage.
